Summit Goal

The goal of this free, regionally focused Summit is to engage with local stakeholders through lectures on relevant workplace mental health topics while also offering worker populations of various industry sectors an opportunity to provide information on the barriers and facilitators to occupational mental health and well-being through interactive sessions. The information gathered during the Summit will be used to help direct future P.O.E. center projects, educational material development, and other resources on key areas identified to address the mental health needs of essential worker populations in the region.
