

CONVERGENCES

CLIMATE CHANGE, HEALTH, LITIGATION.

DONALD POLS

Donald Pols is head of Milieudefensie, an environmental action group member of the international alliance, Friends of the Earth International. As an environmentalist he is interested in the dynamic of social change with a focus on integrating changes in the policies of government and corporations with broader changes in the public narrative.

UPASANA KHATRI

Upasana Khatri is Senior Attorney with the Climate and Energy Program at the Center for International Environmental Law. Her work focuses on protecting human rights in the context of the climate crisis by developing and supporting legal and advocacy strategies related to climate litigation and accelerating the transition away from fossil fuels.

NAVEEDA KHAN

Naveeda Khan is an Associate Professor in Anthropology. She explores insights into the experience of crisis in our present, through the crisis of climate change as it is folded into everyday life and development projects in riverine Bangladesh and global climate governance.

SCOT MILLER

Scot M. Miller is Assistant Professor in Environmental Health and Engineering. He studies the emissions of greenhouse gases and air pollutants. His research group uses observations of greenhouse gases collected from airplanes, towers, and satellites to estimate emissions across individual cities to continents.
