OVERVIEW

Earth Day is recognized around the Globe on Monday, April 22. To celebrate the importance and increase awareness of the day, Johns Hopkins Office of Government, Community, and Economic Partnerships (GCE) is partnering with the Blue Jay's Perch team to introduce to some, and remind others about the community garden on the Johns Hopkins campus at Eastern.

The in-person event will focus on education, allowing visitors to learn about the garden, directly from the Blue Jay's Perch team, including the community/student impact, and opportunities to volunteer. In addition, the planning team will invite participants to take a little time to plant seeds as a way to contribute to a healthier planet.
