

Securing Space: A Plan for US Action

Outer space is vitally important to the United States. Yet as space—especially low Earth orbit—grows more congested and contested, the US risks losing its strategic leadership in this critical domain. The Council on Foreign Relations convened a bipartisan Task Force to assess the challenges. The Task Force leaders will share the report's findings and recommendations and reflect on the future of US leadership in outer space.

Nina Armagno
Lt. Gen. (Ret.)
US Space Force

Task Force Co-Chair

Jane Harman
Former US
Congresswoman

Task Force Co-Chair

Dr. Esther Brimmer
Senior Fellow
CFR

Task Force Project Director

Dr. Carla Freeman
Director
FPI

Moderator

Monday, November 17, 4:00-5:30 PM

Hopkins Bloomberg Center, Theater

In collaboration with and special thanks to:

COUNCIL*on* FOREIGN RELATIONS