

GLOBETROTTERS:

MARITIME SECURITY IN THE INDO-PACIFIC

A stylized map of the Indo-Pacific region, showing landmasses in green and oceans in teal. A dotted black line connects two large red circular dots. One dot is located in the western Pacific, near Japan, and the other is in the Indian Ocean, near the east coast of Africa. The line passes through Southeast Asia and the Indian Ocean.

Join ISLC and SAIS Professor and Brookings Institution Fellow Joshua White and Senior Associate for Asia at CSIS Dr. Amy Searight to discuss the maintenance of maritime and naval security in the Indo-Pacific region.

Wednesday, 3/31 ● 6-7 P.M. EST